WASHINGTON- Senatorial hopeful Derek Jones announced Tuesday that his campaign has raised $4 million dollars so far, tying his rival in fundraising.

The campaign discussed the results in an e-mail sent to supporters this past week.

Jones credits his many supporters with his success. “I’d especially like to thank Heather Locklear, who has been a great help in my fundraising efforts thus far.”

Locklear, well-known for her roles both on-screen and off, has been an ardent supporter of Jones since day one.

“I want everyone to know, Derek is such a great guy, a great dad, a great person-he’s the best man we have for the job,” said Locklear. “I’ve been here since day one, and I’m thrilled to offer my continuing support.”

Jones’ nearest rival, Adam Davis, has also raised $4 million thus far. Most of this money will be held in reserve until next year.

A spokesperson for the Jones campaign said Jones also plans to hold most of the money in reserve for next year.
